

Bearing Fruit – Your Gift Makes a Difference

As Christians, you and I place our faith in something far more powerful than money: We put our faith in the true and living God. And as you will see as you read this issue of Family Voice, He continues to provide for the important work of Concerned Women for America (CWA). He continues to provide for this work through you and the many other faithful members across our country just like you.

There is a common theme in the articles you'll read in your issue this month. Actually, this theme is true of every issue, but I think it is more obvious than usual this time around. Your gifts are making a difference, and God is using them to do great things.

The "Bridge Project," our cover story, was funded by a special grant of about $300,000. Our Field department has seen steady growth and development of CWA state organizations over the past four years due directly to annual grants of about $20,000 from a special family foundation in California.

I know that you may not be in a position to give $20,000 or fully fund a project of this magnitude, however, your gift always makes a difference. It is joined with the gifts of other members and allows CWA to do the Lord's work. We are grateful to all of our members for the support you provide and grateful to God for providing CWA with faithful friends like you.

When I think of the many blessings God has given CWA, the most important one is you. You are how God blesses this organization, and you are how God provides for this organization. Thank you for all that you continue to do to make CWA a powerful instrument for Christian values.
