

Come One, Come All

We Have a Place for You

Are you a lawyer? A farmer's wife? A grandmother? A real estate broker? An interior designer? A stay-at-home mom? A single woman? If you answered "yes" to any of these, you are one of the many kinds of people we are looking for to get involved with Concerned Women for America (CWA) in your state. The diversity of the state leadership at CWA is really amazing. God has called women (and some like-minded men) from all walks of life to work with CWA in our state organizations.

Let me introduce you to just a few of these remarkable women. Linda Schauer, CWA's State Director for South Dakota, is a farmer's wife. She and her husband grow wheat, corn and sunflowers. Whether they're preparing the land, seeding, cultivating or harvesting, Linda is there working beside her husband. She has also raised a family and has a lap full of grandchildren. Just north of Linda, in North Dakota, Janne Myrdal raises a family and horses and helps her do their part to provide food for the tables of America. In the midst of all of that, she finds time to lead CWA in North Dakota. Next door to them, Patti Kanduch serves as CWA's State Director for Montana. She, her husband and their family run a logging company; she is also a mom and a horsewoman.

Linda Schauer works hard to defend the future of South Dakota for her grandchildren.

If you travel in either direction from the heartland of our country, you will find two of our CWA leaders who are attorneys. Phyllis Nemeth, State Director for CWA of California, lives in the Los Angeles area and is an attorney by training. Anne Downey has a law practice with her husband, is the mother of two teenagers, and in her “spare” time leads CWA of New York.

Tammy Mosher, CWA State Director in Massachusetts, can be found on school days in one of the public schools in the northwest part of the state where she ministers as a school nurse. Nancy Staible has used her training and skills as a physician’s assistant to care for the neediest in the nation of Zambia where she travels each summer. She blesses CWA by leading our state organization in Pennsylvania. Judy Smith, State Director in Kansas, is a pharmacist by training, and Sally Mikesell, State Director in Arizona, is a retired surgical nurse.

Patti Kanduch is a logging company owner, a mother and a Montana leader in defense of the family.

Not only does Nancy Staible fight for the family in Pennsylvania, she takes the love of Christ to children in Zambia.

The list goes on and on. Helping to lead CWA in its state organizations are teachers and college professors, stay-at-home moms and homeschooling moms, business owners, single ladies, a number of grandmothers and even a great-grandmother. There is a place for everyone no matter what your background may be.

It is always amazing to see how God can use each and every one of us if we will just make ourselves available to be used of Him. Someone once said, “Responsibility is my response to God's ability." We all have a responsibility to serve God. He has gifted us and placed us where we are so that we can serve Him, and in doing that, bring honor and glory to Him. It is our choice to respond. We would like to invite you to join CWA as we build state organizations across the land. Would you like to join these wonderful ladies as they seek to bring renewal and restore righteousness in the seat of government in their state? Contact us at 800-458-8797 or at inquiries@cwfa.org. We would love to talk with you, answer your questions and get you involved in your state.

*By Kenda Bartlett,
National Field Director* ■

PRAY

Ask the Lord to provide CWA state leaders with the strength and wisdom needed to fight the battles they face.

PRAISE

Thank God for the women and like-minded men who volunteer their time to make their states -- and ultimately our country -- a better place.

ACT

Seek the Lord, and ask if He is calling you to join CWA in its efforts to protect and promote Biblical values among all citizens and reverse the decline in moral values in our nation.

CONCERNED WOMEN FOR AMERICA
Presents

Changing Hearts Leadership Conference 2007

October 4-6, 2007
Arlington, Virginia

The king's heart is in the hand of the LORD, like the rivers of water; He turns it wherever He wishes.

Proverbs 21:1

Join CWA Founder and Chairman Mrs. Beverly LaHaye, President Wendy Wright, policy experts and special guest speakers as we experience the work of the Lord in our own hearts and join Him in changing the hearts of others.

This event is for CWA leaders only. CWA believes in the importance of training its leaders. If you are currently a leader with CWA, watch for more information on this event in the mail. If you are not a leader with CWA, but are interested in finding out more about what positions are available in your area, contact the CWA national field office today at 1-800-458-8797, ext. 106. We look forward to hearing from you!