

Looking for Land

Thirty-five years ago, before many of the women in our National Office were even born, seven men made what I believe to be one of the biggest mistakes in the history of our country. They ruled against the tiniest of citizens and made Roe v. Wade a household name. What we knew then, the Court ignored: that lifeless blob of tissue is a living child. As you'll read in our first article, technology is bearing out that truth.

But what has that horrendous decision done to our country? And more importantly, what can we do about it now? Law is law, and Roe is precedent. ... or is it? Is there truly hope that we'll win this battle? Can Roe be turned back? Can tides change? I believe so.

Exodus 14:21-22 tells us that God used Moses to part the Red Sea: "Then Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and the LORD caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night, and made the sea into dry land, and the waters were divided. So the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea on the dry ground, and the waters were a wall to them on their right hand and on their left."

I believe that our God, who is the same yesterday, today and forever, still calls us to stretch out our hands. He wants to use us, and if we'll only keep pressing on, if we'll stay strong just a bit longer, if we'll trust Him to still work miracles, then I believe that we will one day watch the winds of His Spirit blow back the blood-tinged sea of Roe.

And we will one day see dry land. We will one day see our land healed.
