Dear Ms. Rios and Ms. LaRue:

We are in receipt of your letter dated April 30, 2003, inquiring about the status of any obscenity cases filed by this office and the status of investigations into complaints about obscene material available on the Internet that have been filed on Morality In Media's web site, www.obscenitycrimes.org. The investigation and prosecution of child exploitation and obscenity is a priority in the Middle District of Alabama. In fact, one of our Assistant United States Attorneys attended the Federal Prosecutors' Symposium on Obscenity in June 2002 and a training for Preparing and Trying an Obscenity Case in October 2002 in Columbia, South Carolina. At the Symposium on Obscenity, Attorney General John Ashcroft committed the Department of Justice to the task of combating obscenity. Accordingly, we continue to work with state and federal law enforcement agencies, as well as with prosecutors in the Department of Justice's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section, to aggressively investigate and prosecute those individuals and companies who manufacture and distribute obscene materials.

We trust you understand that we are not able to comment on pending investigations into the distribution of obscene material into the Middle District of Alabama. We can report, however, that we have asked our local federal law enforcement agents to investigate any and every complaint about potentially obscene material available in this District. As we are sure you recognize, most, if not all, the obscenity complaints received by this office are not actually prosecutable because of the difficulty associated with locating the actual individuals or companies that create and distribute the objectionable material. Unfortunately, the trail to finding those individuals sometimes ends outside of our country's borders and out of our prosecutorial reach or, even more frequently, to a dead end.

Ms. Sandy Rios & Ms. Janet M. LaRue

Thank you so much for your inquiry about the status of our obscenity prosecution. In addition to our efforts to investigate and prosecute obscenity cases, we continue to aggressively prosecute those individuals who exploit children. Be assured that we take very seriously all the complaints we have received and will continue to make it a priority to investigate and prosecute those individuals and entities that violate federal law.

Sincerely,
